INSTRUCTION NO. _____

NOTETAKING - PERMITTED

During this trial, I will permit you to take notes. Of course, you are not obliged to take notes. If you do not take notes, you should not be influenced by the notes of another juror, but should rely upon your own recollection of the evidence.

Because many courts do not permit notetaking by jurors, a word of caution is in order. You must not allow your notetaking to distract you from the proceedings.

Frequently, there is a tendency to attach too much importance to what a person writes down. Some testimony that is considered unimportant at the time presented, and thus not written down, may take on greater importance later in the trial in light of all the evidence presented, the final arguments, and my instructions on the law.

Accordingly, you are instructed that your notes are only a tool to aid your own individual memory and you should not compare your notes with other jurors in determining the content of any testimony or in evaluating the importance of any evidence. Your notes are not evidence, and are by no means a complete outline of the proceedings or a list of the highlights of the trial. Your memory should be your greatest asset when it comes time to deciding this case.

INSTRUCTION NO. _____

DIRECT AND CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

There are two types of evidence from which you may find the truth as to the facts of a case - direct and circumstantial evidence. An example of direct evidence is the testimony of one who asserts actual knowledge of a fact, such as an eyewitness. Circumstantial evidence is the proof of facts or circumstances from which the existence or non-existence of other facts may be reasonably inferred. The law makes no distinction between the weight to be given to either direct or circumstantial evidence. Both direct evidence and circumstantial evidence are acceptable forms of proof and should be given the weight you feel is appropriate in light of all of the evidence.

INSTRUCTION NO. _____

EXPERT TESTIMONY

A person is qualified to testify as an expert if he/she has special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education sufficient to qualify him/her as an expert on the subject about which he/she testifies.

An expert witness may offer opinions on questions regarding the issues in the case to assist you in deciding the issues. You are not bound to accept an expert's opinion as conclusive, but should give it the weight to which you feel it is entitled.

In determining the weight to be given to an opinion, you may consider the qualifications of the expert, the credibility of the expert, the information upon which the opinion is based, and the reason for the opinion.

You may disregard an expert's opinion if you find it to be unreasonable or not adequately supported.

GIVEN:

Judge

INSTRUCTION NO. _____

OPINION TESTIMONY BY LAY WITNESS

In determining the weight to be given to an opinion expressed by any witness, who did not testify as an expert witness, you should consider credibility, the extent of the witness' opportunity to perceive the matters upon which the opinion is based, and the reasons, if any, given for it. You may disregard any opinion if you find it to be unreasonable or not adequately supported.

JUDGE'S QUESTIONS TO WITNESSES

During the trial, I may sometimes ask a witness questions. Please do not assume that I have any opinion about the subject matter of my questions. I may ask a question simply to clarify a matter, not to help one side of the case or to hurt another side.

Remember at all times that you, as jurors, are the sole judges of the facts of this case.

"NEGLIGENCE" DEFINED

"Negligence" is the doing of some act a reasonably prudent person would not do, or the failure to do something a reasonably prudent person would do, when prompted by considerations that ordinarily regulate the conduct of human affairs. In other words, it is the failure to use ordinary care under the circumstances in the management of one's person or property, or of agencies under one's control.

"PROXIMATE CAUSE" - DEFINED

An injury or damage is proximately caused by an act or failure to act, whenever it appears from the evidence that the act or failure to act played a substantial part in bringing about or actually causing the injury or damage, and that the injury or damage was either a direct result or a reasonably probable consequence of the act or omission.

MORE THAN ONE PROXIMATE CAUSE

The law does not recognize only one proximate cause of an injury or damage, consisting of only one factor or thing, or the conduct of only one person. On the contrary, many factors or things, or the conduct of two or more persons may operate at the same time, either independently or together, to cause injury and damage; and in such a case, each may be a proximate cause.

BURDEN OF PROOF

In this action, R&S Well Service, Inc. and Markel Insurance Company have the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence the following:

1. That Brian Thiessen was negligent;
2. That the negligence of Brian Thiessen was a cause of the damages claimed by R&S Well Service, Inc. and Markel Insurance Company;
3. The elements of R&S Well Service, Inc. & Markel Insurance Company's damages and the amounts thereof;
4. That the negligence of Brian Thiessen caused or contributed to the damages claimed by R&S Well Service, INC. and Markel Insurance Company.

Brian Thiessen has the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the evidence all of the facts necessary to prove the following:

1. That Eric Rouse, the driver for R&S Well Service, Inc. was negligent;
2. That the negligence of Eric Rouse was a cause of the damages claimed by Brian Thiessen
3. The elements of Brian Thiessen's damages and the amount thereof;
4. That the negligence of Eric Rouse caused or contributed to the damages claimed by Brian Thiessen.

In determining whether an issue has been proved by a preponderance of the evidence, you should consider all of the evidence bearing upon that issue regardless of who produced it.

W.C.P.J.I. 3.01 (as modified)

DEFENDANT'S PROPOSED INSTRUCTION NO. 11

INSTRUCTION NO. _____

PREPONDERANCE OF THE EVIDENCE

In a civil action where each party asserts a claim against the other, such as this, each party has the burden to prove every essential element of their claims by a preponderance of the evidence. If a party should fail to establish any essential element of its claims by a preponderance of the evidence, you should find for the opposing party as to that claim.

"Establish by a preponderance of the evidence" means to prove something that is more likely than not. In other words, a preponderance of the evidence means such evidence as, when considered and compared with the evidence opposed to it, has more convincing force, and produces in your minds belief that what is sought to be proved is more likely than not true. This standard does not require proof to an absolute certainty, since proof to an absolute certainty is seldom possible in any case.

In determining whether any fact in issue has been proved by a preponderance of the evidence you may, unless otherwise instructed, consider the testimony of all witnesses, regardless of who may have called them, and all exhibits received in evidence, regardless of who may have produced them.

GIVEN:

Judge

INSTRUCTION NO. _____

COMPARATIVE FAULT

Your verdict in this case must be determined on the basis of comparative fault of the parties.

Brian Thiessen is at fault for R&S Well Service, Inc. and Markel Insurance Company's damages if Mr. Thiessen was negligent and you determine this to be a cause of R&S Well Service, Inc. and Markel Insurance Company's damages.

R&S Well Service is at fault for its and Markel Insurance Company's own damages if its driver, Eric Rouse, was negligent and you determine this to be a cause of R&S Well Service, Inc. and Markel Insurance Company's damages.

Likewise, R&S Well Service, Inc. is at fault for Brian Thiessen's damages if its driver, Eric Rouse, was negligent and you determine this to be a cause of Brian Thiessen's damages.

Brian Thiessen is at fault for its own damages if he was negligent and you determine this to be a cause of his damages.

The term "negligence" is explained in other instructions.

It will be necessary for you to determine the comparative fault, if any, of each of the parties involved in the occurrence. It will also be necessary for you to determine the total amount of damages, if any, sustained by each of the parties involved.

Your findings as to fault will effect the parties' recovery. It is my duty to explain how that may occur.

A party's liability for damages is limited to the percentage of fault, if any, that you find is attributable to it.

A party's recovery is reduced by the percentage, if any, of fault that you find is attributable to it. If you find that a party's fault exceeds fifty percent (50%), that party will not be entitled to recover any damages.

The verdict form provided to you includes spaces for you to record your determination of the parties' comparative fault on a percentage basis.

If you find that a party was at fault in some percentage, do not make an adjustment to account for the percentage of fault that you attribute to that party when you record the total amount of that party's damages, if any, on the verdict form. The judge- not the jury - is responsible for reducing a party's recovery to account for the percentage of fault, if any, that the jury attributes to it.

In explaining the consequences of your verdict, I have not meant to imply that either party is at fault. That is for you to decide in conformity with these instructions.

ELECTION OF FOREPERSON; DUTY TO DELIBERATE; COMMUNICATIONS WITH COURT; CAUTIONARY; UNANIMOUS VERDICT; VERDICT FORM

You must follow the following rules while deliberating and returning your verdict:

First, when you go to the jury room, you must select a foreperson. The foreperson will preside over your discussions and speak for you here in court.

Second, it is your duty, as jurors, to discuss this case with one another in the jury and try to reach agreement.

Each of you must make your own conscientious decision, but only after you have considered all the evidence, discussed it fully with the other jurors, and listened to the views of the other jurors.

Do not be afraid to change your opinions if the discussion persuades you that you should. But do not make a decision simply because other jurors think it is right, or simply to reach a verdict. Remember at all times that you are judges of the facts. Your sole interest is to seek the truth from the evidence in the case.

Third, if you need to communicate with me during your deliberations, you may send a note to me through the marshal or bailiff, signed by one or more jurors. I will respond as soon as possible either in writing or orally in open court. Remember that you should not tell anyone - including me - how your votes stand numerically.

Fourth, your verdict must be based solely on the evidence and on the law that I have given to you in my instructions. The verdict must be unanimous. Nothing I have said or done is intended to suggest what your verdict should be - that is entirely for you to decide.

Finally, the verdict form is simply the written notice of the decision that you reach in this case. You will take this form to the jury room, and when each of you has agreed on the verdicts, your foreperson will fill in the form, sign and date it, and advise the marshal or bailiff that you are ready to return to the courtroom. You will note that some of the questions call for a "yes" or "no" answer, and some call for a number expressed as a percentage. Your answers to each question must be the unanimous answer of the jury.

DEFENDANT'S PROPOSED INSTRUCTION NO. 25

INSTRUCTION NO. _____

DEFENDANT'S CONTENTION STATEMENT

Brian Thiessen contends:

On or about November 9, 2007, Eric Rouse, an employee of the Plaintiff R&S Well Service, Inc., was the driver of a R&S workover rig. Rouse's oil rig off to the side of the road near mile post marker 15.8 on north-bound Highway 59, in Converse County, Wyoming. An R&S "crew truck" was behind the workover-rig. On that day, Defendant/Counterclaimant, Brian Thiessen, was operating a 2001 Peterbuilt semi-tractor with an attached trailer, both of which were owned by him (collectively, the "Thiessen vehicle"). He was approaching the R&S vehicles from the south. Mr. Thiessen observed that the R&S vehicles were pulled off to the right of the highway and out of the lane of travel, either stopped or traveling at a very slow rate of speed.

As Thiessen neared the R&S vehicles, he did not see any turn signals or other indication that the R&S vehicles intended to turn left across the lanes of travel from their position on the right side of the highway. Mr. Thiessen observed the driver of the R&S crew-truck waive his hand out of the window, which Thiessen reasonably understood to mean that the R&S vehicles intended Thiessen to pass. Thiessen proceeded to move into the left lane of travel in order to provide the R&S vehicles a wider berth while he passed. As Thiessen approached the R&S vehicles, he noticed that the R&S crew truck driver had put on his turn signal; however, by this point, there was no opportunity for Thiessen to react. The service road onto which the R&S vehicles intended to turn was unmarked and not readily apparent as Mr. Thiessen approached the R&S vehicles.

Rouse, the rig driver turned his vehicle across the lanes of traffic and into the direct path of Thiessen. As a result, the derrick portion and the front of the R&S workover rig collided with the side of Mr. Thiessen's truck and trailer, resulting in property damage to both the workover rig and the Thiessen vehicle.

Defendant Thiessen contends that Eric Rouse, the driver of the R&S workover rig, was negligent in turning his vehicle across two lanes without using visible turn signals and ensuring that no traffic was present. He maintains that had Mr. Rouse acted as an ordinarily careful driver and checked the highway for oncoming traffic prior to re-entering the highway or, if the R&S vehicles had stayed within the appropriate lanes of travel and properly signaled their intention to turn, that the accident would not have occurred. Instead, because Mr. Rouse was not acting as an ordinarily careful driver, the R&S workover rig and Brian Thiessen's vehicle collided. Therefore, R&S is liable for the negligence of its driver, Rouse. As a result of Eric Rouse's unreasonable conduct, Thiessen sustained property damage to his vehicle in the amount of $48,273.02.
